ANTIQUE OAK PANELING

We stock Red and White Oak, which have been salvaged from old barns and warehouses that were ubiquitous in the middle and eastern regions of the US. We offer paneling with the original aged patina or “old face,” skip-planed to reveal some of the bright grain beneath the surface, or freshly milled for a smooth appearance.

Our oak paneling has been kiln dried for stability and back planed to thickness for straightforward installation. We stock square-edge widths between 4” and 12” (in 1” increments), which can be single- or mixed-width, depending on your desired aesthetic. This material can also be milled with a ship lap or tongue and groove profile. If these stock options aren’t exactly what you were looking for, we are happy to mill to your custom specifications.
