

RAFTER STOCK PANELING

Over decades, the joists and rafters of warehouses, schools, homes, and other buildings take on a rich toast-to-tobacco brown patina. What once served as a structural component can now lend a look to your home that only time can create.

Our rafter stock paneling will include nail holes, strapping marks, rough and smooth texture and other historical character. It can be milled with two ripped edges for consistent widths and/or backplaned to a consistent thickness. We also offer a variety of millwork profiles.

PANELING SPECS

available widths	4-14"
milling options	backplaned to thickness; edged to consistent widths; ship lap or tongue and groove edge profiles

*custom options available—give us a call

PHOTO: HEIDI LONG

PHOTO: HEIDI LONG

PHOTO: AUDREY HALL

PHOTO: AUDREY HALL

PHOTO: JOSH CALDWELL PHOTOGRAPHIC

PHOTO: DAVID MARLOW PHOTOGRAPHY