NATURE'S PATINA BARNWOOD IN A BOX

With this line we combine a decades old natural patina with the convenience of modern milling for cladding that is tried and true in its authenticity, yet straightforward to install. Time and the elements have worked in concert to create a color palate that ranges from windswept grays to earthy browns to create a look that is often imitated, but never quite duplicated. Evidence of its previous life, this material will exhibit nail holes, strap marks, and other historical character. All of the boards have been kiln dried for stability, back planed to a consistent thickness of a hefty 5/8", straight line ripped for tight seams, and sized to three widths so you can choose from a single width or mix it up. If you'd like widths other than 3", 4" and 5", please inquire about our custom options.

GLACIER GRAY

Sun, wind, rain, snow, and plenty of time collaborate to create the gray tones in our corral board. Of all of our products, none more truly represents the iconic rural Montana landscape, with its miles and miles of fence lines, interrupted by the occasional corral or outbuilding, from which this material comes.

BRIDGER BROWN

Warm toast-to-tobacco browns make up this color palate, thanks to authentic barnwood and rafter stock from agricultural structures, warehouses, and schools from across North America. What once served as a stud, joist, rafter, or siding could now lend a look to your home that only time can create.

YELLOWSTONE BLEND

If you seek a more eclectic scheme, look no further than our Yellowstone Blend. Here we combine the material from Glacier Gray with that from Bridger Brown for an edgy and expanded color range.

AGRARIAN OAK

A blend of red and white oak, this material earned its original patina from decades in an agricultural structure or warehouse from the Midwest and Eastern US. Colors will range from light to rich browns with some warm gray tones.
